EDITORIAL COMMENT

News Editorial

Dear Editor:

Some would regard it as unfortunate that consideration of what is now thought to be a highly controversial matter consumed a major portion of your paper at the time the North Central Association visitors were here. As far as the front page story is concerned, this clearly, in my judgment, was not the case. A university ought to have life and vitality, and there is no reason why there cannot be differences of opinion within the university community or among reasonable people in general, without harm being done. In fact, usually good comes of careful, dispassionate consideration of items on which people disagree.

Further, since the matter was considered by the Senate, it clearly was incumbent upon you to report it, regardless of who happened to be on the campus at the time. (I had been surprised it was considered, since I had told the Executive Committee that I would ask that a revision be worked out—which made the document that was taken to the Senate obsolete.)

On the other hand, your editorial struck me as being intemperate in spots. I could find no objection to the main burden of it, although I disagree with it. One might quarrel with the use of the word "directive," since the statement was in fact no more than a formal presentation of what the editorial said was "the informal relationship (that) has worked well in the past."

But the editorial bordered on the ridiculous when it said, "As the Senate is the only organization on campus directly concerned with representing the student body in affairs dealing with the administration, it appears that the Administrative Council is trying to eliminate that group also." This implies that some other group or groups had been eliminated. None was named. The implication that the Senate was to be eliminated deserves no comment.

Earlier, the editorial asserted that had the statement "been accepted by the Senate there would have been no use for the group to continue meeting." Does the editor really believe this to be true?

In a conference with me, the editor thought the administration was "inept" in bringing up this matter at this "inopportune" time (when the North Central Association team was here.) When it was presented to me by the Dean of Students, I could see nothing wrong in point of time, particularly since there was nothing that could quite be called a "crisis" in relations between the Dean of Students and the Senate. As I explained both to the editor and to the Executive Committee of the Senate, it seems to me wise to avoid problems rather than let them develop and then try to solve them. The Dean's statement seemed to me, at the time, (particularly with revisions that were suggested) to smooth the way for avoiding procedural problems which are the most unnecessary kind of problem. Further, there is no good reason to hide differences of opinion from visitors.

While writing, I wish to comment briefly on the visitation. Last students were worried about the accreditation, I wish to state that when the ten-year visitation was planned and announced routinely about a year ago, I had no apprehension as to the probable findings of the Review Committee. After talking with them prior to their departure, I feel that they were very favorably impressed with the general quality of Eastern Illinois University, with its students, its faculty, its program, and its philosophy. Were it not for the confidential nature of my conference with the group—which ended after midnight Tuesday—I could add much more that would give everyone a feeling of pride in our University.

Sincerely yours,
Quincy Doudna
President

Senate Action

Dear Editor:

At the March 25th meeting of the Student Senate, it was brought to the attention of the Senate by Wayne Smith, representing Sigma Alpha Eta, that the News has presented their interpretation of his remarks in a recent news story. After discussion, the Senate decided to recommend to the Eastern News that steps be taken to correct this unfortunate incident.

It was the belief of the Senate that the news story reflected the interpretive opinion of the editor and not the actual happenings within the Senate. Mr. Smith felt that through this news story the News had presented to the student body a biased and inaccurate account of his statements before the Senate.

It is the Senate's belief that editorials should remain on the editorial page and that news happenings should be included in your news stories. We further feel that if the editor wishes to give his own interpretation of a story, he should indicate this in an appropriate manner.

Sincerely,
Robert K. Luther

Campus Problems

Dear Editor:

In the spring, a young's man's fancy turns to thoughts of . . . not baseball, not girls, but sit-ins, riots and administrative protest.

Last year the campus water-fight was just that—a water-fight. This year it will not be just a bunch of guys uniting to have fun and release pent-up emotions, but it will be a protest. And, the administration knows it.

I think that is why Dean Anfinson sent a letter to all undergraduate students, for attached to the letter was a letter that was sent to parents of Eastern students from President Doudna. Much of what was stated in those letters was true. However, why were they sent out so early in the year?

Could it be that the administration expects protests to exist to such an extent that force may be necessary to curtail such action?

After hearing some of the changes proposed for the coming school year, many of my questions were answered. For instance, the directive sent to the Student Senate would make the group just a rubber stamp for the administration.

In the past, the Senate would only ask or recommend changes or amendments to policies present-

Annual Contracts . . .

In the past 10 days, several issues have developed from decisions in certain administrative offices in Old Main, all of which concern many of the students.

The latest issue concerns the annual contracts for the women's residence halls beginning fall quarter, 1965-66.

The office of the dean of women announced March 30 that beginning this fall, all women's contracts will be issued for the complete academic year, not quarterly as has been the practice at Eastern for many years.

The information sheet sent to all occupants of the women's halls by the assistant dean of women says that cancellation of the contracts for the academic year 1965-66 after August 1, 1965, will result in forfeiture of $88 of the advance payment unless all space in the women's halls is rented on the tenth day of the fall quarter.

To the News, the letters seem to add another stringent set of procedures to the already numerous list that governs student life at Eastern.

The new policy on payment of hall room and board will place an added burden to students working their way through school as the payments come due one month before the quarter even starts.

The $142 payment on or before Aug. 1, Nov. 1 and Feb. 1 will force students to pay for the rooms before they have earned the money to do so.

Many of the employees of the food services and other campus departments will probably not have the money to make the payment demanded from them if they are going to school without help from home.

The first payment in the summer is not the point of this editorial because at present a payment of $84 is required by Aug. 1. What the News feels is that the moving up of payment dates will cause many of the students at Eastern to suffer unjustly because they are earning their own way through school.

The annual contracts have also been the cause for much discussion among the women students at Eastern. Many of the students have expressed the idea that the new contracts will destroy the Greek organizations on campus because the members will not be permitted to move from the hall to the sorority house any quarter of the year.

At present, the sororities require members to live in the house at least one quarter while they are attending Eastern. With the new regulation, how can these groups continue to exist when the houses at present do not have the facilities to house all the members?

The News feels that one of the exceptions to the new procedure should be the permission to move to a sorority house without having to continue paying for the room in the residence hall.

What will happen to a sorority if residents of the house drop out of school or student teach?

The group will not have any place from which to acquire replacements. And, the added burden on the sorority members trying to make up for the deficit could wreck many of the individual budgets.

Representation . . .

The issues confronting the Student Senate at this time are, relatively speaking, of the greatest importance. Therefore we feel a few comments and questions are in order:

1. The only active voice the student body has besides the letters to the editor and the editorial comment, is the Student Senate. Since there have been only ten letters to the editor printed this quarter — all that we've received — it seems though the student body believes the Senate is the most relied upon voice for the student body.

2. The Senate, designed especially to voice the opinions of the students, recently voted to issue a "directive" back to the Student Personnel Services with an "unacceptable" marked upon it. This was the decision of the Senate without consultation with the groups represented. Previous to this has been standard practice for the Senate to consult with their members before voting on questions. We don't disagree with the decision of the Senate, but the manner in which this decision was reached seems questionable.

3. Was the Senate fully informed when it voted upon the "directive" issue April 1? Did the Senate executive council have prior knowledge that the university officials had agreed to some revision of the directive was in the works? Such knowledge, if it existed, might possibly have channeled the Senate discussion of the directive along a different line.

Some changes in the direction which the Student Senate have followed in the past might be at hand:

1. The students should seek an accurate representation of active voice in current student affairs, not necessarily relying upon the present Student Senate, but expressing opinions and voicing their suggestions in such a way that they will not alienate themselves from the Student Personnel Services. This might be accomplished through direct communication or the revision of the present constitution now being rewritten — so that there is an adequate representation of student opinion.

2. If the students feel that the 21-year-old housing policy is outmoded and unnecessary, they should take definite steps to recommend to the proper administrative body that the policy be abolished.

3. That the students ask for such changes with the realization that the same responsibility that rests with any adult would rest, in fact, with them. When people request rights, which will be theirs to begin with, and refuse to accept the responsibilities that directly accompany those rights, they show an immaturity. It seems to show that Eastern students are not as immature as they have previously seemed to indicate.

ed by the university. These were not always accepted, yet the administration was forced to listen to the students.

Even the residence halls are dictating to the residents how long they can stay in the halls. Next year the women's halls will have an annual contract, and that's it. If a girl marries, flunks out, student teaches or can prove she is financially unable to remain in the hall, she can then leave.

If, for instance, a freshman girl doesn't like living in the residence hall system and wants to live off campus with a friend, or simply wishes to make a change, she is unable to do so. In other words, you'd better make sure that you want to live in a hall before signing a contract.

And, if the girl is pledging a sorority and expects to move into the house, say for example spring quarter, she can forget it unless she can afford to pay for both places. Good Luck Girls.

Now for the men in the halls. Last year resident assistants were cut down in the women's halls to help economize, but the word from these halls hasn't been in favor of this change.

This has placed added pressure not only on the resident assistants but also on the directors. Next year this plan will go into effect in the men's halls, for the number of resident assistants will

THE MOVIE version of "My Fair Lady" (which took home the Academy Awards Monday night) should reach this area after Eastern has presented the stage play. (Excellent plan, if someone's part, I'd say.) We'll all have a chance to make comparisons and I wonder which will suffer: Eastern's rendition or Metro-Goldwyn-Meyer's?

When a film clipping of the movie was shown during Academy Award presentations (It was the "Rain in Spain" number.), the most noticeable thing about it was that Audrey Hepburn's mouth was moving when no one was singing and some other words, the dubbing job was lacking. At least our Eastern version (There are two of them—Kathy Oros and Linda Stanley—) alternate nightly performances for the week-long run of the show . . . our Elizas will do their own singing.

The play requires nearly a hundred costumes and several different settings. This alone would make the play one to talk about . . . and to see. Because the play had such a long run on Broadway because of the success of the movie version and because it has been so long since a musical has been done on Eastern campus, "My Fair Lady" is probably the most talked about (and most expensive) theatre production in many a year in these parts.

According to William H. Zeigel, vice president for administration, the increase of $36 per year in hall fees for 1965-66 is due to the increased cost of food and higher salaries for the food service employees.

In clarifying the annual con-

bonds are sold by the Teachers College Board, a requirement is made that the halls be filled during the academic year and the new measure will assure this.

Easter Celebrations Around The World

"He is risen!"

These words, found in St. Mark 16:6 are attributed to the angel of the Lord, speaking to the two Marys on the first Easter Morning. This year, on April 18, 870 million Christians will repeat the phrase—in song, sermon and prayer—as they celebrate the glory of Easter, symbolic of the rebirth of Christ.

In Jerusalem, swift runners will light torches from a holy fire and bear them back to kindle the torches of the faithful. Many Germans will hold aloft buckets of Osterwasser (Easter water believed to have curative powers.)

Class Wednesday In Meeting Rules

The last session of instruction in parliamentary procedure will take place at 7:30 p.m. Wednesday in room 203 of the Fine Arts Center.

The instruction, sponsored by the University Council of United Nations and the Student Senate, is taught by members of the speech department.

The sessions are open to all students and it is recommended that students holding executive positions in various organizations attend. Further information can be obtained from Margaret Soderberg, social science department, or Donald Garner, speech department.

In parts of the British Isles, some people may rise early on Easter Sunday to see the sun dance . . . and certain citizens of the American South will listen for the sun to shout.

Almost everywhere around the world, Easter Sunday is welcomed with rejoicing, singing, candle processions and the ringing of church bells.

Mexicans literally "dance in" the Easter morn—streets are jammed with colorful costumed performers dancing all through the night of Easter Saturday. In Rio de Janeiro and in parts of Cuba, huge floats, numerous bands, noisemaking and fireworks welcome Easter.

In Germanic areas like Austria and Bavaria, a festival preceding Lent, called Fastnacht, is part of the Easter preparation. Nonsense plays, skits and masquerades are held. And in America's own "Dutch" sections of Pennsylvania, some housewives celebrate the day by cooking doughnuts all day.

However, for Christians the day has a much more holy meaning.

In celebration of the day, German-speaking peoples tell each other special Easter stories, called Ostermarchen, which are designed to produce laughter.

However, a more vigorous demonstration of the belief that Easter is the season of renewed health and hope is in the widespread European custom of "Easter smacks." Men and women exchange good-natured blows to keep each other young and healthy and to assure good luck for the year.

In Spain the affirmation of Easter is expressed in a riot of spring flowers decorating altars and church facades. This floral celebration is expressed in the Spanish term for Easter, pascua de flores, meaning Easter of flowers.

Everywhere, children hunt for the brightly colored Easter eggs, symbols of birth and regeneration, but for Christians, the hopes and prayers for rebirth are captured in the simple yet dramatic message, "He is risen!"

Strawberry Shortcake Tops List In College Student Food Survey

Not long ago the food service managers at Blackburn College in Carlinville made a survey of the students as to their food preferences. Here are some of the most preferred foods:

Roast beef was the meat favorite with 98 per cent approval, and Swiss steak close behind with 97 per cent. Hamburgers, roast pork and ham were next with 93 per cent approval. Ninety-one per cent liked fried chicken.

For a vegetable 93 per cent liked corn on the cob and 92 per cent liked French fried potatoes. Whipped potatoes, whole kernel corn and buttered green beans are close behind, all receiving 90 per cent approval.

Milk and orange juice tied at 95 per cent for the favorite drink. Lemonade was next with a 91 per cent following.

The desserts are obviously popular with 95 per cent liking ice cream and sundaes, 94 per cent liking chocolate chip cookies and blueberry pie and 93 per cent approving apple pie.

Amazingly, out of the scores of items included in the survey, only one item was voted likeable by 100 per cent of the students. It wasn't bean soup; only 28 per cent liked that. Nor was it stewed prunes, accumulating 41 per cent approval, or soft boiled eggs with 40 per cent following.

The only 100 per cent liked food was strawberry shortcake.

According to this survey strawberry shortcake is the favorite meal of the college student.

Roast beef or swiss steak, milk or orange juice to drink on the cob and strawberry shortcake for dessert. College students seem to have a fair idea of what they like. We should all eat well.

Spring Enrollment Up From 1964 To 1965

Spring quarter enrollment at Eastern is 4,501. This is 727 more than the spring, 1964, enrollment. Of this quarter's figures, 3,333 are part time students and 1,168 are doing graduate work.

The current admission policy, based on the applicant's previous semester class rank, gives priority to students in the upper 10 per cent of their graduation class. If a student ranks in the top third of his high school class, he will be admitted only during the summer quarter, but on final admission.

EDITORIAL REFLECTIONS

Student Reflects On Meeting With Accreditation Team

By Steve Gibbs

Note: The following are personal recollections and editorial reflections on the student meeting with the North Central Accreditation team on Tuesday. The writer attended this printing as a student and not as a reporter, this is not a straight news story.

The editor hurried in, a few minutes late, from the warm, sunny weather with an air of directness and obvious congeniality. The students were already in the Student Senate building.

The proper introductions were made by a colleague and the session began. John Steck, the University of Minnesota, Martin Stearns from St. University asked all last year where the student editor supposedly wrote about a situation at Eastern, one asked?

ABOUT THIS incident

The students were reluctant at first, but the ball was soon rolling.

"This was a situation where the editor (of the News) tried to publish an article about the University concerning graft," one student volunteered.

"That was really a situation," another interjected, "where the buildings were falling apart before they were finished and someone was suspected of taking a kickback."

"What do you know for sure about this?" One of the team members asked.

"Well," someone else pondered, "we never found out anything for sure. It was all hushed up."

I interjected the thought that if there was any definite proof of anything, it surely would have been taken to court. There was more discussion on this, but slowly the subject changed.

At this point F. E. Oliver from the University of Michigan came in and joined the team.

"WHY DID YOU choose Eastern?" one team member asked.

There were some transfer students who had come from junior colleges. I transferred here myself from a western university with an enrollment of over 12,000.

"Dad went to Eastern and he recommended it to me," I said.

"Eastern met my financial needs, even though none of my friends had ever heard of it," one Chicago resident volunteered.

"It's a small college, and I had several friends who recommended it to me," another student said. The meeting was taking a sedate direction, and I had visions of a long, drawn-out session. I glanced at the clock—11:15 it read.

Then the tide turned back once more to the controversial issues.

"How is the housing situation here?" one of the accreditors asked.

I LOOKED AT Noel Watkins, theatre arts major from Casey, and others around the room seemed to smile. Again the reluctance to speak gave way to open frankness.

"This is one of the current issues being debated in our student representative body right now," someone said.

"You see," said Watkins, "there is a dispute as to whether students over 21 should be allowed to live anywhere they please, no matter what their academic average."

"Are there restrictions now?" Stearns asked.

Watkins explained the policy for unapproved housing as it stands now, and suggested that some students would like to see it changed. I detected a smile on one girl sitting across the room.

I glanced at the clock and now hoped that we would have more time with the team. It was now 11:35 a.m., 30 minutes since we started.

Student-faculty relationships were then discussed. In view of the recent discussion on existentialism presented by the English Club, I couldn't help voicing my opinion once more.

"THE RELATIONSHIP here seems to be highly conducive to good scholarship and an adequate voicing of the student's mind. This is one thing I like about Eastern," I said.

A graduate student verified this by adding the point that the "smallness" of Eastern makes it possible for students to speak out when they feel compelled to and will generally be heard. "The professors seem to go out of their way to help a student," he added.

"There are several clubs which permit the students to voice their opinions and which bring in speakers from the outside," another student added. This brought up the Lecture Series program.

After hashing over the recent speakers on campus and pointing out that some clubs even bring in their own speakers, and with the clock creeping up on the noon hour, the topic was again directed back to student-faculty relationships.

Sixteen Teams Entered In Tomorrow's Eastern Relays

Cindermen Top Bradley, 87-58; All-American Steele Wins 3 Firsts

The third annual Eastern Relays will be run tomorrow with the largest field since the meet was moved here from Peoria, where it was sponsored by Bradley University.

Sixteen schools are slated to compete: the Chicago Illini, Ball State, Bradley, Carthage, Central Michigan, De Paul, Ferris State, Greenville, Illinois State, Indiana State, Loyola (Chicago), Northeastern Missouri State, Northwestern, Western Illinois, Wisconsin-Milwaukee and Eastern.

The meet is run on a strictly individual basis with no team champion named, although the News will keep an unofficial record of team scoring. Panther Coach Maynard O'Brien is the meet director.

Last Tuesday's warm-up meet with Bradley indicated that Eastern is strong in the field events, but weak in the relays. The Panthers won both ends of the varsity and non-varsity competition, largely on the strength of the field events, all of which were won by Eastern.

The varsity won 87-58 and the freshmen 75-68.

All-American Art Steele was the Panther's top scorer, winning three events: the high jump, broad jump and triple jump, all with apparent ease.

One of the pleasant surprises, or rather the fulfillment of high expectations, was the showing of distance man John Schneider. The lanky cross-country runner made the switch to the cinderpath with success, winning both the mile and two mile events.

Schneider paced himself with the leading Bradley runner in both races. Then with half a lap to go turned on his finishing kick to win by 2.7 sec. in the mile and 3.9 seconds in the two mile.

Ron Rentfro also opened the season with victory, winning the decrease from 26 to 21. Can these 21 men do as good or as efficient a job as the 26? I doubt it.

Also consider that last year these changes took place in the women's halls and this year in the men's halls. This year the annual contracts will be used in the women's halls. What are the odds that the 1966-67 contracts in the men's hall will be the same?

The above changes have occurred in less than a week. What are we to expect in the coming weeks?

If there are protests, they will be against changes that effect the students directly. Eastern students will not follow such universities as the University of California at Berkeley.

We will not march for an end-to-the-war-in-Viet Nam or stage sit-ins for civil rights or call for greater political freedoms on campus or picket in favor of a union for the school cafeteria employees.

Protesting would mean that apathy on the campus has reached a new spirit of campus militancy. We, the students, are taking an interest in this school as well as our futures when we express, or at least are given the privilege to express, our opinions.

Our purposes are not to play at student government, but a regulation must have a reason. The above regulations do not. In fact, many rules and administrative concepts are just previous, outmoded philosophies of what's good for the college student.

This year's protest pattern indicates students are most easily excited by that which is closest to them—the campus. From these protests there could be a source of new insights and fresh ideas that this campus always needs.

Sincerely,
Chuck Petersen

100-yard dash in 9.85 and the 220 in 22.2.

However, the Panthers were unable to come up with a win in any of the relays, varsity or frosh.

In the hurdles Eastern was dominant. Charles Turner won both high and low, while Bill Anderson, making the switch from basketball, finished second in the high and third in the low.

Completing the monopoly of field events that started with Steele, were Bob Trimble winning the shot; Chuck Peabody, the javelin; Ed Nilsen, the pole vault; and Dick Johnson, the discuss.

Nilsen, who holds the Eastern pole vault record, cleared 13 feet with ease, but Coach O'Brien reports that two of the competitors slated to vault in the Eastern relays have already cleared 15 feet this year.

Four other Panthers placed in the field events: Ray Schäljo, second in the javelin and discuss; Jim Ficek, third in the high jump; Tom Loyd, third in the broad and triple jump; Roger Jebe, third in the pole vault.

In the running events Richard Letts took a second for Eastern in the 880 yard run. Roger Quinlan finished third in the mile and 880-yard runs; William Dortch, third in the 100 and 200-yard dashes; and James Morris, third in the 440-yard dash.

Vidoni, Balodimas, Pattin, Wetzler Named Captains

Eastern's varsity baseball team has elected quad-captains for the 1965 season.

Elected by their teammates were third baseman Nick Balodimas, pitcher Marty Pattin, catcher Gene Vidoni and outfielder Dick Wetzler. All are seniors.

Vidoni, captain of last season's team, will be the field captain. He was also co-captain and most valuable player of last fall's football team.

Pattin led the nation in strikeouts last year, posting 130. All of the other quad-captains hit over .300 last year. Vidoni batted .328, Balodimas hit .333 and Wetzler led the team with a .337 average.

concerning the problems which have become apparent in the past few weeks, and one of the accreditators sat back in his chair and took a long puff on his cigar.

"It seems," he said, choosing his words carefully, "that the student-faculty relationship is fairly solid, but the student-administrative body relationship has some reconciling to do. The students and governing officers don't seem to be communicating too well with each other."

I looked at Watkins, and it seems as if we both knew what the other was thinking. The man wasn't even a part of the Eastern community and he read our minds to the exact degree.

Creativity, General Intelligence and Memory."

Stapp, a native of Norton, Kan., received his master's degree at Teachers College, Columbia University, and his doctorate at Pennsylvania State University.

Before coming to Eastern, he held positions at Bethany College, Kan., and Edinboro State College, Penn. Stapp also has been a production illustrator with Boeing Airplane Co. and has been in the engraving and lithograph departments of the Hallmark Greeting Card Co.

Netters Challenge Big Ten Opponent In Saturday Meet

Eastern's tennis team will face one of the two Big Ten opponents on their schedule this season when, at 1:30 p.m. Saturday, they take on the University of Illinois at Champaign.

Also on tap this year is an April 27 encounter with Indiana University.

Coach Rex V. Darling predicts the Illinois meeting will be a "good match that could go either way." He rates the Illini as being an average Big Ten team, ranking about in the middle of the conference.

In last year's meeting the Panther's Jerry Garver beat the top ranked Illinois player, who has since graduated. However, Eastern has to concede the advantage of depth to the Illinois crew.

Diamondmen Open Road Season With Two At Millikin Tomorrow

Eastern's varsity baseball team will attempt to extend its winning streak to seven as they face Millikin at Decatur tomorrow in the road debut of the '65 season.

Eastern's varsity baseball team extended its winning streak to five by sweeping Wednesday's twin-bill from Indiana Central by scores of 6-5 and 6-2.

Coach William McCabe plans to start Marty Pattin and Floyd White in the 1 p.m. twin-bill. Pattin struck out 16 in his opening day win against Carthage, and White relieved to save the first game and went the route to secure the win in the second game of last Saturday's doubleheader with Carthage.

The Panthers defeated the Big Blue in both of last year's meetings by scores of 16-1 and 3-2. Tad Heminger's RBI single in the ninth was the Panther's game-winning blow in the second game. Highlighting the 16-1 game was Ted Colbert's no-hitter until the last inning, only to see Millikin produce four hits in that frame.

Millikin is defending champion in the CCI.

The Panthers jumped on top in the first inning of the first game on a solo homer by Val Bush and an RBI single by Gene Vidoni. Bush's homer sailed 320 feet over the left field fence. Vidoni's single scored Dick Wetzler from third to give the Panthers the 2-0 first inning margin.

EIU Linksmen Downed, Face Western Tomorrow

Coach Harold (Hop) Pinther's varsity golfers lost their second match of the season Tuesday to Wabash College. Larry Sunday's 77 topped all medalist scoring for the Panthers but he was beaten by his opponent 3-0.
